In point of solvency and reliability and honorable dealing, they have outdone all other companies. They are insured upon the very best securities in the world—first class bonds and mortgages upon property in New York and Brooklyn—secured by railroad bonds and other securities, which are subject to the fluctuations of the market, and liable, in times of panic, to be sold at a loss. THE STATE OF SOCIETY THAT SOME PEOPLE WANT TO EXTEND INTO THE TERRITORIES, and in the last of this city, who recently visited Virginia, (in the slave section), informs us that while there, not only was she not permitted to receive a Pittsburgh paper, but private letters were found to have been opened by the postmaster or his clerk, for fear that something "incendiary" might be going on. Is this freedom—such freedom as we should desire to extend into the territories? The nearest tyranny of Europe is not worse than this—there is a woman cannot receive a paper, or be secure against the sneaking and prying into her private letters by "dirty dogs" in the postoffice.

"Letting the cat out of the bag," is thus rendered in The Kinkadee story: Discharging the felix domesticus from sacrosanct confinement.

DOUBLE OR QUITS.—"I'll flog you for an hour, you little villain!"

"Father," instantly replied the incorrigible young scamp, be balanced a penny on his finger, "I will toss you to make it two hours or nothing."

The Lillard Hotel at St. Louis, approaches completion. Its construction will cost over $700,000. It is the largest hotel in the world, far exceeding in size any in New York or Philadelphia. The front on Washington street is 270 feet, and its depth 227 feet. It will easily accommodate twelve hundred persons, and the boarders can take a walk of a mile and a half before breakfast by going through the several halls, no one of them twice.

The total receipts of grain of all sorts, at Chicago, during the month of October, was 16,144,589 bushels. Of this grand aggregate there were 5,492,793 bu. of wheat.

King cotton has a rival, this year, in king wheat. When the former undertook to get up a panic over the sale of the $10,000,000 of government securities, the latter furnished the money to prevent it.

DAILY GAZETTE.

SOUND ADVICE.—An Arkansas father, sending his son forth to a scheming world, like Polonius, fortified him with advice.—Those who know the game of eth're will appreciate the humor of the sermon.—Bob, you are about leaving home for strange parts. You're going to throw me out of the game, and go it alone. The odds is against you, Bob, but remember always that industry and perseverance are the winning cards; they are the "browsers." Book learning and all that sort of thing will do to fill up with, like small trumps; but you must have the bowers to back 'em, else they ain't worth shucks. If luck runs agin you pretty strong, don't cave in and look like a poor caddy; the more you have of them, the more you'll have of them. You'll head up and make 'em believe you're hush of trumps; they won't play so hard agin you. I've lived and traveled around some, Bob, and I've found out that as soon as folks thought you held out a weak hand, they'd buck agin you strong. So, when you're sorter weak, keep on a bold front, but play cautious; be satisfied with a p'nt. Many's the hand I've seen euchred cause they put a regular test-three, your own cards; they don't let 'em 'nig' on you; you'll recollect the game lays as much with the head as with the hands. Be temperate; never get drunk, for then no matter how good your hand you won't know how to play it; both bowers and the ace won't save you, for there's aartin to be a 'misdeal,' or something wrong. And another thing, Bob (this was spoken in a low tone), don't go too much by the women; a queen is kinder poor cards; the more you have of them, the worse for you; you might have three and very trump. I don't say discard 'em all; if you get hold of one that's a trump, it's all good, and there's aartin to be one out of four. And above all, Bob, be honest; never take a man's trick out don't belong to you; nor 'slip cards,' nor 'nig,' for then you can't look your man in the face, and when that's the case there's no fun in the game; it's a regular test-three, your own cards; they don't let 'em 'nig' on you; you'll recollect the game lays as much with the head as with the hands. Be temperate; never get drunk, for then no matter how good your hand you won't know how to play it; both bowers and the ace won't save you, for there's aartin to be a 'misdeal,' or something wrong. A New Strike.

The Democrat has broken out in a new spot. This morning it says:

Are the people of this city going to vote for Ezra A. Foot for the Senate, who lives upon the line of the Beloit & Madison railroad, and whose interests are antagonistic to those of the people of this city?

Would not our city have a good show in the Legislature with Ezra A. Foot in the Senate, and Alexander Graham, the brother-in-law of Judge Kee, (who is largely interested in the Beloit & Madison road,) in the assembly.

The Democrat is ready for anything that will bring a griot to its mill. Its efforts, however, against Mr. Foot will have as little effect as its slanders against Mr. Graham.

Mr. Foot as well as Mr. Graham, was fairly nominated in a convention of the republican party. He does it true, live on the line of the Madison and Beloit railroad; but to whom is he indebted for that favorable circumstance? Who permitted the change in that charter of that road, which took it away from Janesville? Every one familiar with the history of that road knows it was done by leading democrats who had the control of a rival company, (the old Valley road) who wished to avoid the competition it would create here, and were willing to send it ten miles west of Janesville that their own road might have a monopoly of the business of the city, these are the very men who are now seeking to arouse a local feeling, simply for political purposes, against Mr. Foot. Are they the men to set themselves up as the special guardians of the interests of Janesville?

It will be well for republicans of the city to think of these things. If, under any circumstances, the Madison and Beloit railroad can injure the city of Janesville, the very men who are now crying out against Mr. Foot, are the ones who have given it the power.

But what injury, more than has already been suffered, can Mr. Foot, if he were disposed, inflict upon Janesville? The charter of the Madison and Beloit road was amended years ago, by the aid of the men we have stated, and its construction to Madison can in no way be effected by any legislature in which Mr. Foot can have agency.
In no matter of legislature have we any fear that Mr. Foot will be hostile to the interests of the city; but we can tell the people of Janesville how they can injure their interests hereafter. If they make a local opposition to Mr. Foot, or let his vote drop below the other candidates on the same ticket, the voters in the country towns, when there is a city candidate in nomination, will retaliate and drop him, and thus injure and perpetuate a state of things more destructive to the best interests of the city than any thing else that can be devised.
The city is in the power of the country, and if such a warfare is commenced, will be the sole sufferer in it.

It will be also well to remember that the city unanimously presented a city candidate against Mr. Foot, who came within one vote of a nomination. If Mr. Pease had been nominated the country friends of Mr. Foot would have supported him cheerfully and with all their votes. Good faith to Mr.
Foot and his friends require the same kind of support by the republicans of Janesville.

they would have expected and received from the country if Mr. Pease had been nominated.

If the influence of marital relations are to govern the action of a representative, is not Mr. Richardson as likely to represent the political sentiments of his brother-in-law, Mr. Pease, as Mr. Graham the pecuniary interests of Judge Kee?

Independent Candidates.

We regret to see in several republican districts two republican candidates running.
The effect of this division may be to let a democrat slip in between them, and endanger a republican majority in the assembly.
It is a knowledge of this state of things elsewhere which inspires the democrats in this city with so much zeal for Mr. Richardson, and the assurances they give republicans of a large republican majority in the legislature is only to lull into security the republicans whose votes they solicit and take advantage of their votes to aid in the project of electing a democratic U. S. Senator from Wisconsin and obtain the control of the legislature to district the state for congress and future legislatures.

How can any republican aid in this scheme?
When a republican is asked to vote for Mr.
Richardson, let him think whether he wants a democrat to vote, in his representative capacity, for some squatter sovereignty, don'tcare-whether-slavery-is-voted-up-or-voteddown democrat, to go for the next six years to the U. S. Senate, or a true-hearted faithful republican.

The issue at stake is too great to be trifled with. It is by no means certain that ONE VOTE IN THE LEGISLATURE MAY NOT DECIDE ITS POLITICAL CHARACTER. Those who are talking about there being no danger, and that one vote is of no consequence, are talking to secure the very object they profess to thing impossible—i. e. a democratic majority in the legislature.

Why Are They So Anxious?

If the election of Mr. Richardson would be simply a personal compliment, why are the democracy so anxious for his success?
He has never been an active politician, and made strong ties of a political nature with his now zealous friends; and is it not a well attested truth that the politicians who are now so earnestly supporting him, care as little about personal friendships as any persons in the community? What has inspired this sudden zeal for an "old settler," a "clever fellow," "an accomplished gentleman," and all the other endearing epithets bestowed upon Mr. Richardson? Just think on this point? Have the unscrupulous politicians who control the democratic organization in this city, and who dispose of personal friends, when candidates in a caucus, in the same manner they would sell a horse—i. e. get rid of him to the best advantage—so actively changed their characters that personal ties and preferences are the controlling elements of their nature?

Are they now ready to vote for republicans on merely personal considerations?

There is no such thing in the book—no such change in their characters. They nominated Mr. Richardson because they thought they could make good use of him, and are now working earnestly for him because they want a DEMOCRAT, and not Hamilton Richardson, as a neighbor, a citizen or a friend, in the legislature. If they can get him there, they will receive his vote for a democrat in the U. S. senate and every other party measure which will come up in the legislature. That is the whole story.

Are republicans in Janesville willing to have their city, which has acquired a reputation throughout the state for its republican character, represented in this manner?
If they are they will vote for Mr. Richardson; and if they are not, they will vote for Mr. Graham.

A SNAKE IN THE BED.—The Claitourne Banner, or one of its correspondents, is responsible for the following fearful snake story:

About the year 1829, one E. Baker moved to Bayou Kitchie in the southern portion of Natchitoches parish. During his travel there had been a quantity of rain, which made it necessary that everything should be sunned. One of the feather beds had, by accident, a hole torn in it, and out of the hole a snake crawled.

The snake lay on a brush heap sunning. Not long afterwards the sleepers on this bed often were troubled with dreams of snakes, and its occupants actually believed a snake was in bed with them, and would bounce out of bed in great alarm, but would return after a vigorous but fruitless search. Two years after Baker came to Kitchie, the eldest daughter was married to J. W. Brown and took this bed home with her; yet its sleepers continued to be troubled with visions of snakes, and an occasional search was instituted for the intruder. Four years after this marriage Baker visited his daughter and was put upon this bed.

About ten o'clock he was heard calling for his son-in-law, "John! John! come here, quick! I say, a snake is in my bed!" Lights were had, and though every nook and corner was searched no snake was found.
All retired again, but were soon to be startled by the old man's excited cries for help and lights, as if he was holding something with all his strength.

Thinking he had a nightmare, but, to his surprise, found him wide awake and holding something under the covering with all his might. After searching under the covering it was found to be a snake on the inside of the tick among the feathers. It was pulled out and found to be quite strong and active, and was about seven feet in length. Now the question is for naturalists to solve, how did this snake subsist among the feathers, as it must have been in there for six years without food of any kind, or water?

The tick was new when the hole was torn,
and there never had been but that one hole in the bed until one was out to pull the snake out.

We give this as strictly true. John W.
Brown and his wife are still living, and will assert the same as the above. Their post office is Coushatta, La. Louisiana.

SINGULAR SCENE—FOREIGN DANCERS SOLD AT AUCTION.—A foreign correspondent, writing from a town in Germany, says:

"The action of dancers at a village is a curious affair—the girls are all assembled on an open space, generally in front of the burgomaster's house of business, and an auctioneer having been chosen among the young men, generally a wag in his way—the names of Roschen, Narmchen, Kirtchen and all the other surnames (an endearing diminutive by which the lasses are styled) are called out and the auction for the dancer proceeds, which gives the highest bidder the sole right over her hand for the year, at all the fete dances and rejoicings which take place, and these are not few—it is generally an understood thing that it is akin to a declaration, but still is not in any way binding. Of course there are struggles and competition for the prettiest, but she falls to the richest. The cash goes to pay musicians and a spread or two, and if anything is over, it is given to the Church.

The New York "religious" weeklies have not yet stopped their sparring. The Christian Intelligencer having said of the Independent: "We hope the Devil does not take pleasure in assuring our cotemporary made to our subscription book of persons who have for various reasons become dissatisfied with the Christian Intelligencer; we have not as yet added the name to which it refers; nor, indeed, have we heard, on the part of that questionable subscriber, of any contemplated change in his present subscription."

Pinclings.—By Carrie Vernon.

Days of vacation, from the wearying, brain-pressing duties of the schoolroom—How much is enjoyed, by the inhalation of the air—pure, clear and bracing in an occasional drive over the prairies! How glorious the autumn foliage; no wonder that the robe of Mrs. American Ambassador, trimmed with our autumn leaves, was not outrived even by pearls and diamonds at the court of royalty. How gorgeous the oaks and maples! How richly attired is Nature with her warm hued robes of the solferino, grisselle, and magenta colors just now a la mode with the milliners. But dame Nature is fickle, or rather she is just now jealous of the attentions of the son of the Indian Saunders. He does not smile upon her every moment, and she fears his admiring glances are lavished upon some heavenly beauty who holds his some the other side of that odious cloud, whose silver lining betrays a feeble glimpse of the brilliancy of the occasion.

Upon such a day, when she was repulsively chilling by her frowns, and by the turning of the cold shoulder towards us, we—that is Josie and myself, wrapped in shawls, furs, and buffalo robe, turn the face of our horse city-ward, for the two-fold purpose of shopping a little, and of gratifying our womanly curiosity—suppose there is no other kind—by a glimpse of the "little giant."

Firstly, visiting a few dry-goods establishments, we slightly assist the merchants of two or three, in driving their ruinous business of selling at ten per cent. below cost; meanwhile making our way towards the place of rendezvous, being near which, a faint huzza makes known to us the appearance of the object of our curiosity upon the platform. Wending our way opposite which with our woman's eye, proceed to take notes as follows:

Not very short, but thickset and portly, giving him that appearance; round and thick, not high or long head; coarse features; red face—perhaps from exposure while taking that circuitous route to visit that relative of frequent allusion, being ofttimes betrayed into the expression of his views to crowded audiences, out of doors, we mentally soliloquized; Dark hair, plen-tily sprinkled with gray, and which evidently has not made the acquaintance of a western barber; very plainly and we could not say neatly dressed. Position while speaking, is usually, with left hand in the pocket of his pance—as a boyish acquaintance of ours spells the word—while his gestures are made mostly with his head, impressing a nervous beholder like himself with the fearful apprehension that if he should become too much excited, while speaking of "popular sovereignty," "irrepressible conflicts," and especially of that cherished relative of his, named Nebraska William, that he might possibly be forced to part with that important organ of his anatomy. In short, judging from appearance, the animal predominates over the intellectual in his organism, and the mental conclusion of the soliloquy was that if Douglas gains the presidential seat, our ambition does not lead us to desire the position of the lady at the White House, at present. A ponderous bouquet bounds to the feet of the speaker, from the hand of some democratic lady; he bows and departs, the crowd separates and wend their several ways.

of twenty-one years or upward, belonging to each of the following classes, who shall shall have declared their intention to become citizens, conformably to the laws of the United States on the subject of natuquent law of congress to the contrary notwithstanding.

of this state, may hereafter be engaged, directly or indirectly, in a duel, either as principal or accessory, be permitted to vote at any election; nor shall any person who shall have made or become directly or indirectly interested in any bet or wager depending upon the result of any election at which he shall offer to vote, be permitted to vote at such election.

The foregoing provisions apply to all the candidates to be voted for on Tuesday next.

A BEAUTIFUL INCIDENT.—Immediately after the Virginia Militia had defeated the Indians at the battle of Point Pleasant, Va., the survivors collected the bodies of their fallen comrades and interred them near the confine of the two rivers, upon what is known as the Reservation. The country was then an unbroken forest, and beneath the branches of its giant trees—far away from the haunts of civilization—were dug the humble graves of those brave but unfortunate men.

Eighty-six years have flown since then—The dense forest has yielded to the ax of civilization, and the redman's race has vanished beneath the star of empire, and here, where once was the scene of carnage, peace with its consequent blessings, has given and encouraged to industry and enterprise, and agriculture blends its military with the other arts and sciences in a peace-offering, as exemplified in the following incident:

"In our last we stated that one of the most interesting features of our Agricultural fair, was the visit of the Kanawha riflemen, and we now state—to which many of our citizens bear witness—that their most impressive performance was at the graves of these heroes, on the morning of the last day of the fair. The company in full uniform, headed by their splendid band, marched to the graves and fired three rounds, and then performed a solemn dirge. It was the first time, to our knowledge, that the graves have thus been honored. A large number of persons witnessed the ceremony; and so impressively solemn was its performance, tears stood in the eyes of many."

At about 8 o'clock this morning the north western portion of Mount Vernon mills, in the upper part of this city, gave way and fell outward upon a building adjoining, in the course of erection for Orr & Co., paper fell in the river. But Zedon was severely but not fatally injured, and Mr. Conway, contractor for Orr & Co., was slightly hurt.

fell was erected last winter and was pronounced unsafe.

A New Strike.

The Democrat has broken out in a new spot. This morning it says:

Are the people of this city going to vote for Ezra A. Foot for the Senate, who lives upon the line of the Beloit & Madison railroad, and whose interests are antagonistic to those of the people of this city?

Would not our city have a good show in the Legislature with Ezra A. Foot in the Senate, and Alexander Graham, the brother-in-law of Judge Kepp, (who is largely interested in the Beloit & Madison road,) in the assembly?

The Democrat is ready for anything that will bring a grist to its mill. Its efforts, however, against Mr. Foot will have as little effect as its slanders against Mr. Graham. Mr. Foot as well as Mr. Graham, was fairly nominated in a convention of the republicans party. He does, it is true, live on the line of the Madison and Beloit railroad; but to whom is he indebted for that favorable circumstance? Who permitted the change in that charter of that road, which took it away from Janesville? Every one familiar with the history of that road knows it was done by leading democrats who had the control of a rival company, (the old Valley road) who wished to avoid the competition it would create here, and were willing to send it ten miles west of Janesville that their own road might have a monopoly of the business of the city, these are the very men who are now seeking to arouse a local feeling, simply for political purposes, against Mr. Foot. Are they the men to set themselves up as the special guardians of the interests of Janesville?

It will be well for republicans of the city to think of these things. If, under any circumstances, the Madison and Beloit railroad can injure the city of Janesville, the very men who are now crying out against Mr. Foot, are the ones who have given it the power.

But what injury, more than has already been suffered, can Mr. Foot, if he were disposed, inflict upon Janesville? The charter of the Madison and Beloit road was amended years ago, by the aid of the men we have stated, and its construction to Madison can in no way be effected by any legislature in which Mr. Foot can have agency. In no matter of legislation have we any fear that Mr. Foot will be hostile to the interests of the city; but we can tell the people of Janesville how they can injure their interests hereafter. If they make a local opposition to Mr. Foot, or let his vote drop below the other candidates on the same ticket, the voters in the country towns, when there is a city candidate in nomination, will retaliate and drop him, and thus inaugurate and perpetuate a state of things more destructive to the best interests of the city than any thing else that can be devised. The city is in the power of the country, and if such a warfare is commenced, will be the sole sufferer in it.

It will be well to remember that the city unanimously presented a city candidate against Mr. Foot, who came within one vote of a nomination. If Mr. Pense had been nominated the country friends of Mr. Foot would have supported him cheerfully and with all their votes. Good faith to Mr. Foot and his friends require the same kind of support by the republicans of Janesville they would have expected and received from the country if Mr. Pense had been nominated.

If the influence of marital relations are to govern the action of a representative, is not Mr. Richardson as likely to represent the political sentiments of his brother-in-law, Mr. Pense, as Mr. Graham the pecuniary interests of Judge Kepp?

Independent Candidates.

We regret to see in several republican districts two republican candidates running. The effect of this division may be to let a democrat slip in between them, and endanger a republican majority in the assembly. It is a knowledge of this state of things elsewhere which inspires the democrats in this city with so much zeal for Mr. Richardson, and the assurances they give republicans of a large republican majority in the legislature is only to lull into security the republicans whose votes they solicit and take advantage of their votes to aid in the project of electing a democrat U. S. Senator from Wisconsin and obtain the control of the legislature to district the state for congress and future legislatures. How can any republican aid in this scheme? When a republican is asked to vote for Mr. Richardson, let him think whether he wants a democrat to vote, in his representative capacity, for some squatter sovereignty, don't-care-whether-slavery-is-voted-up-or-voted-down democrat, to go for the next six years to the U. S. Senate, or a true-hearted faithful republican.

The issue at stake is too great to be trifled with. It is by no means certain that ONE VOTE IN THE LEGISLATURE MAY NOT DECIDE ITS POLITICAL CHARACTER. Those who are talking about there being no danger, and that one vote is of no consequence, are talking to secure the very object they profess to thing impossible—i. e. a democratic majority in the legislature.

Why Are They So Anxious?

If the election of Mr. Richardson would be simply a personal compliment, why are the democracy so anxious for his success? He has never been an active politician, and made strong ties of a political nature with his now zealous friends; and is it not a well attested truth that the politicians who are now so earnestly supporting him, care as little about personal friendships as any persons in the community? What has inspired this sudden zeal for an "old settler," a "clever fellow," "an accomplished gentleman," and all the other endearing epithets bestowed upon Mr. Richardson? Just think on this point? Have the unscrupulous politicians who control the democratic organization in this city, and who dispose of personal friends, when candidates in a caucus, in the same manner they would sell a horse—i. e. get rid of him to the best advantage—so entirely changed their characters that personal ties and preferences are the controlling elements of their nature? Are they now ready to vote for republicans on merely personal considerations?

There is no such thing in the book—no such change in their characters. They nominated Mr. Richardson because they thought they could make good use of him, and are now working earnestly for him because they want a DEMOCRAT, and not Hamilton Richardson, as a neighbor, a citizen or a friend, in the legislature. If they can get him there, they will receive his vote for a democrat in the U. S. Senate and every other party measure which will come up in the legislature. That is the whole story. Are republicans in Janesville willing to have their city, which has acquired a reputation throughout the state for its republican character, represented in this manner? If they are they will vote for Mr. Richardson; and if they are not, they will vote for Mr. Graham.

The Cincinnati Gazette challenges the inspectors of the Ohio election to show that three hundred colored men actually voted at all, at the late election. Herschel V. Johnson had stated in a speech that the election in Ohio was turned by the negro vote.

The Chicago Journal says that 30,000 barrels of apples have been brought to that city over the Michigan Central road during the past month.

We learn from the Atchison (Kansas) Union of the 27th of Oct., that a carload, freighted with 17,000 pounds of corn, corn meal, potatoes, etc., had arrived for the relief of settlers in the interior.

Rock County.—Our information from all parts of our county is that the people were never so fully aroused as at this election. There will be a full vote and a majority of not less than three thousand for "Honest Old Abe."

New Patents.—The following important patents were issued to western inventors from the United States patent office, for the week ending Oct. 23:

T. F. Allen, Dyersville, Iowa, improvement in rubber car springs.

John Gilchrist, Berlin, Wis., improvement in spoke machines.

F. Kettler, Milwaukee, Wis., improved rotary engine.

J. F. Letellier, Grand Rapids, Mich., improvement in steam valves.

John McArthur, Aurora, Ill., improved method of raising water from wells.

James B. Mohler, Pekin, Ill., improvement in grain weighing machines.

Miles J. Shinn, Richmond, Ind., apparatus for detecting the frauds in ballot boxes.

Jesse B. Wisler, Chicago, Ill., improved machines for drying and cooling grain.

Thos. A. Morris, Green Bay, Wis., a signor to himself and F. R. Schettler, of same place, improved method of adjusting the rake of saws.

The Oxford (Miss.) Mercury says that a rumor prevails that a duel is on foot between one of our senators and a distinguished politician, formerly a citizen of this state, but now a resident of Tennessee. The parties herein indicated are probably Jeff. Davis and Gen. Henry S. Foote.

What a glorious world this would be, if all its inhabitants could say with Shakespeare's Shepherd: "Sir, I am a true laborer; I earn what I wear; I owe no man hate; I envy no man's happiness; I am content with my good; I am content with my flock."

The population of Racine county is 21,324.

ALL SORTS OF PARAGRAPHS.

A southern clerk in one of the departments at Washington, interested himself to enable a slave girl to purchase her freedom, and the fact created so much scandal against him as an anti-slavery man, that he was turned out of office. He has now turned republican, as that seems to be the only political position consistent with philanthropy.

It is said that Rev. T. S. King will return to Boston at the expiration of his engagement in San Francisco. While the Pacific shores are a good place to visit, they appear to have few attractions as a place of permanent residence.

A frog was killed in Centre Gorton, Massachusetts, last week, while attempting to swallow a chicken three weeks old; the frog measured 19 inches in length.

The Pike's Peak papers report the names of a large number of the miners, speculators and others in that region who are "leaving for America," adding generally that "they will retire in the Spring."

There is much suffering among the returning Pike's Peakers, from sickness and severe weather. Mr. G. T. Ingle, from Monmouth, in Illinois, is reported to have died of fever.

Spurious bills on the Boone Co. Bank, Indiana, have made their appearance. The plate is genuine, but the signatures are a bad imitation. The paper is lighter and more dingy and bluer than the genuine.

The steamer H. R. W. Hill, from Memphis to New Orleans, exploded on Wednesday night. Thirty persons were instantly killed, and from forty to fifty terribly scalded.

At Council Bluffs, Iowa, the alarming discovery has just been made that Frank Bates, a young, dashing, popular, lady-fascinating dry-goods clerk, is a girl!

The Cincinnati Gazette has numerous extracts from papers published in the south, which ridicule and denounce the idea of dissolving the Union because of the election of Lincoln.

A Mr. Lauckford has been punished with thirty-nine lashes, in Mobile, for giving a pass to a negro who worked for him, but whom he did not own.

It is intimated that Mr. Littlejohn of Oswego, candidate for the assembly, has sued Mr. Greeley, of the New York Tribune, for libel.

The terrific gale in the Gulf of St. Lawrence several days ago, was very destructive. It blew a perfect hurricane on land and sea. Seventy or eighty vessels are reported lost. Whole ships' crews perished, and the damage to property is incalculable.

Dr. Steward, of King George, Va., sold forty-seven slaves to a gentleman from Arkansas for about $47,000.

A challenged gentleman, at Trinity, Cal., the other day, replied by tearing up the challenge and eating the bearer. It proved "satisfactory."

A SNAKE IN THE BED.—The Claiborne Banner, or one of its correspondents, is responsible for the following fearful snake story:

About the year 1829, one E. Baker moved to Bayou Kistachite in the southern portion of Natchitoches parish. During his travel there had been a quantity of rain, which made it necessary that everything should be sunned. One of the feather beds, by accident, a hole in it about an inch square. This hole was patched while he lay on a brush heap sunning. Not long afterwards the sleepers on this bed often were troubled with dreams of snakes, and its occupants actually believed a snake was in bed with them, and would bounce out of bed in great alarm, but would return after a vigorous but fruitless search. Two years later, Baker died of Kistachite, the eldest daughter was married to J. W. Brown and took this bed home with her, yet its sleepers continued to be troubled with visions of snakes, and an occasional search was instituted for the intruder. Four years after this marriage Baker visited his daughter and was put upon this bed.

About ten o'clock he was heard calling for his son-in-law, "John! John! come here, quick! I say a snake is in my bed!" "Light" were had, and though every nook and corner was searched no snake was found. All retired again, but were soon to be startled by the old man's excited cries for help and lights, as if he was holding something with all his strength. John went to him, thinking he had a nightmare; but, to his surprise, found him wide awake and holding something under the covering with all his might. After searching under the covering it was found to be a snake on the inside of the tick among the feathers. It was pulled out and found to be quite strong and active, and was about seven feet in length. Now the question is for naturalists to solve, how did this snake subside among the feathers, as it must have been in there for six years without food of any kind or water?

The ticking was new when the hole was torn, and there never had been but that one tick in the bed until one was out to pull the snake out.

We give this as strictly true. John W. Brown and his wife are still living, and will assert the same as the above. Their post office is Coushatta, Louisiana.

SINGULAR SCENE.—GIRL DANCERS SOLD AT AUCTION.—A foreign correspondent, writing from a town in Germany, says:

"The auction of dancers at a village is a curious affair—the girls are all assembled on an open space, generally in front of the burgomaster's house of business, and an auctioneer having been chosen among the young men, generally a wag in his way—the names of Roschen, Narmchen, Kirtchen and all the other girls (an enduring diminutive by which the ladies are styled) are called out and the auction for the dancer proceeds, which gives the highest bidder the sole right over her hand for the year, at all the festive dances and rejoicings which take place, and these are not few."

It is generally an understood thing that it is akin to a declaration, but still is not in any way binding. Of course there are struggles and competition for the prettiest, but she falls to the richest. The cash goes to pay musicians and a spread or two, and if anything is over, it is given to the Church.

The New York "religious" weeklies have not yet stopped their sparring. The Christian Intelligencer having said of the Independent: "We hope the Devil does not take pleasure in our company."

That, whenever accessions may have been made to our subscription book of persons who have for various reasons become dissatisfied with the Christian Intelligencer; we have not as yet added the name to which it refers; nor, indeed, have we heard, on the part of that questionable subscriber, of any contemplated change in his present subscription."

Placings.—By Carrie Vernon.

Days of vacation, from the wearings, brain-pushing duties of the schoolroom! How much is enjoyed by the inhalation of the air—pure, clear and bracing in an occasional drive over the prairies! How glorious the autumn foliage; no wonder that the robe of Mrs. American Ambassador, trimmed with our autumn leaves, was not outvied even by pearls and diamonds at the court of royalty. How gorgeous the oaks and maples! How richly attired is Nature with her warm hued robes of the solferino, grizzle, and magenta colors just now a la mode with the milliners. But dame Nature is fickle, or rather she is just now jealous of the attentions of the son of the Indian Summers. He does not smile upon her every moment, and she fears his admiring glances are lavished upon some heavenly beauty who holds his sovereign the other side of that odious cloud, whose silver lining betrays a feeble glimpse of the brilliancy of the occasion.

Upon such a day, when she was repulsively chilling by her frowns, and by the turning of the cold shoulder towards us, we— that is Josie and myself, wrapped in shawls, furs, and buffalo robe, turn the face of our horse city-ward, for the two-fold purpose of shopping a little, and of gratifying our womanly curiosity—suppose there is no other kind—by a glimpse of the "little giant."

Firstly, visiting a few dry-goods establishments, we slightly assist the merchants of two or three, in driving their ruinous business of selling at ten per cent. below cost; meanwhile making our way towards the place of rendezvous, being near which, a faint huzza makes known to us the appearance of the object of our curiosity upon the platform. Wending our way opposite which with our woman's eye, proceed to take notes as follows:

Not very short, but thickset and portly, giving him that appearance; round and thick; not high or low head; coarse features; red face—perhaps from exposure while taking that circuitous route to visit that relative of frequent allusion, being off views to crowded audiences, out of doors, we mentally soliloquized: Dark hair, plentifully sprinkled with gray, and which evidently has not made the acquaintance of a western barber; very plainly and we could not say neatly dressed. Position while speaking, is usually, with left hand in the pocket of his pantaloons—as a boyish acquaintance of ours spells the word—while his gestures are made mostly with his head, impressing a nervous beholder like oneself with the fearful apprehension that if he should become too much excited, while speaking of "popular sovereignty," "irrepressible conflicts," and especially of that cherished relative of his, named Nebraska William, that he might possibly be forced to part with that important organ of his anatomy. In short, judging from appearances, the animal predominates over the intellectual in his organism, and the mental conclusion of the soliloquy was that if Douglas gains the presidential seat, our ambition does not lead us to desire the position of the lady at the White House, at present. A ponderous bouquet bounds to the feet of the speaker, from the hand of some democratic lady; he bows and departs, the crowd separates and wends their several ways. Rock Prairie, October 20, 1890.

QUALIFICATIONS OF ELECTORS.—The statute declares that every male person of the following classes, who shall have resided in the state for one year, and preceding any election, shall be deemed a qualified voter at such election:

1. White citizens of the United States.

2. White persons of foreign birth, who shall have declared their intention to become citizens, conformably to the laws of the United States on the subject of naturalization.

3. Persons of Indian blood, who have once been declared by law of congress to be citizens of the United States, any subsequent law of congress to the contrary notwithstanding.

SECTION 2. No person under guardianship, non compos mentis, or insane, shall be qualified to vote at any election; nor shall any person convicted of treason, felony, or bribery, unless restored to civil rights; nor shall any person, who, being an inhabitant of this state, may hereafter be engaged, directly or indirectly, in a duel, either as principal or accessory, be permitted to vote at any election; nor shall any person who shall have made or become directly or indirectly interested in any bet or wager depending upon the result of any election at which he shall offer to vote, be permitted to vote at such election.

The foregoing provisions apply to all the candidates to be voted for on Tuesday next.

A BEAUTIFUL INCIDENT.—Immediately after the Virginia Militia had defeated the Indians at the battle of Point Pleasant, Va., the survivors collected the bodies of their fallen comrades and interred them near the confluence of the two rivers, upon what is known as the Reservation. The country was then an unbroken forest, and beneath the branches of its giant trees—far away from the haunts of civilization—were dug the humble graves of those brave but unfortunate men.

Eighty-six years have flown since then.—The dense forest has yielded to the axe of civilization, and the redman's race has vanished beneath the star of empire, and here, where once was the scene of carnage, peace with its consequent blessings, has given encouragement to industry and enterprise, and agriculture blends the military with the other arts and sciences in a peaceful offering, as exemplified in the following incident.

"In our last we stated that one of the most interesting features of our Agricultural fair, was the visit of the Kanawha rifle-men, and we now state—that among our citizens bear witness—that their most impressive performance was at the graves of those heroes, on the morning of the last day of the fair. The company, in full uniform, headed by their spirit and brass band, marched to the graves and fired three rounds, and then performed a solemn dirge. It was the first time, to our knowledge, that the graves have thus been honored. A large number of persons witnessed the ceremony; and so impressively solemn was its performance, tears stood in the eyes of many." Point Pleasant Review.

Last Meeting But One!

The meeting at the court room this evening will be the last but one before the election. Let the rally be one that will give an earnest next Tuesday. Hon. S. D. Hastings and C. G. Williams, esq., are announced as the speakers.

Was That What You Meant?

We care not whether Mr. Richardson is a rich man or not. When we spoke of his nearest and dearest interests being centered in this city, we spoke of the affections—of the heart—of the social as well as the business relations of life. We did not mean dollars and cents.—Daily Democrat.

The Democrat is evidently disconcerted by our comparison between Mr. Graham and Mr. Richardson as shown by the assessment roll. The boasted identification of Mr. Richardson with the "interests of Janesville," though he is a wealthy man, is not in the aid he renders in supporting the government of the city whose representative he wishes to be, but the tie that binds him is made by the affections, the heart, the social relations of life. Dollars and cents are now insignificant things in the estimation of a paper that has made the air vocal with praises of Mr. Richardson's "city interests" here, and vociferations of Mr. Graham's want of them.

The Democrat, however, will find this dodge worn out. Mr. Richardson was notoriously nominated by those who engineered his nomination because he is wealthy, and because they believed they should have the aid of his money in conducting the election. This was the reason why Mr. Stoddard was defeated, and his friends discarded for Mr. Richardson.

"We care not whether Mr. Richardson is a rich man or not," says the Democrat. It is altogether likely that the tax payers and workers of the city will care. The mechanic who pays a tax upon his stock in trade, the man who owns a small homestead and does not escape the visit of the tax collector, the dryman whose horse and cart is returned by the assessor, and all who have to walk up to the captain's office and settle, will ask why Mr. Richardson is exempt from the burdens falling upon them. They will be apt to inquire what does all this do about Mr. Richardson's love for and identification with Janesville mean, when he pays no tax upon any of his large personal wealth, and a tax upon only two vacant city lots.—They will ask why they are solicited to vote for Mr. Richardson, when in doing so they are obliged to leave their party—a party whose principles they believe to be absolutely essential to the true interests of the government—at a time, when of all others, a representative of their party is needed, and the election of an opponent is to be deprecated and avoided.—They will come to the conclusion that the effort to get him into the assembly has some other object than the one avowed by his laudatory friends or a desire to compliment an old townsman. They will think that a man wealthy as Mr. Richardson ought to help support the city which is asked to make him its representative in the legislature, and see that the praises bestowed upon him are strangely inconsistent with the accusations against Mr. Graham.

Republicans who are solicited to vote for Mr. Richardson may be fully assured of one thing—and that is that the charges against Mr. Graham are insincere, and that the effort to get Mr. Richardson into the legislature is simply to send a DEMOCRAT there for POLITICAL purposes.

The Democrat wants proof that it has assailed Mr. Graham with violence and vindictiveness. Turn to your files and you can't go amiss, if you have any desire or capacity for conviction.

Disatisfied.—The Democrat is dissatisfied because we did not yesterday pronounce false its statement that Mr. Graham was ineligible to office when he was elected school commissioner. We had previously done so, but to please our neighbor, who is practicing upon the rule generally that a lie well stuck to is as good as the truth, we will now repeat the assertion that that is false. Mr. Graham, when he was elected had been a resident of the state more than a year, and if that does not, as far as residence is concerned, constitute eligibility, will the Democrat inform us what does?

Are you satisfied now?

Counterfeit 5's on the Clinton Bank of Clinton, Connecticut, are in circulation.

Several London papers have recently published leading articles against the efforts of obtaining men servants to wear livery. They declare that the necessity imposed on a man of a degrading one, the demand a ridiculous one, and otherwise discuss the matter in a vein that would delight the rankest republican.

A WHOLE REGIMENT OF CHICAGO ZOUAVES.—It appears that the project of forming a Zouave regiment in Chicago, to consist of eight companies, has been consummated, and Col. Ellsworth is to be the chief officer. The old company will be company A, and the rest B, C, &c., in the order of their organization. The work of organizing the new company is progressing steadily, and in a few months the regiment, which is to be known as the "Independent Regiment of Illinois Light Infantry," will be full.

"I thought you told me, doctor, that Smith's fever had gone off?" "Oh, yes! but it and Smith went together."

GRAND RALLY OF THE REPUBLICANS

NIGHT BEFORE ELECTION!
 THERE WILL BE A MASS MEETING!
 of the Republicans of this city on Monday Evening, Nov. 5th, at the Court Room.

The Speakers will be
 W. D. HAWES, H. A. PATTERSON,
 C. R. GIBBS, J. B. CASSIDAY,
 I. C. SLOAN, JOHN NICHOLS,
 J. A. SLEEPER, J. M. BURGESS, JAS. H. KNOWLTON.

The Wide Awakes

and the Wide Awake Glee Club will be out.

LET EVERYBODY COME!

Saturday Evening, November 3d,
 S. D. HASTINGS & C. G. WILLIAMS.

Wide Awake Song!

THESE "Latter Days," Freedom's glories torches bearing,
 Be wakened! be wide awake!
 Let their gleaming light out flaring,
 Egypt's thickest darkness break;
 We are leading, we are leading,
 Freedom through the gloom of night;
 We are marching, we are fighting,
 For the cause of truth and right.

Be awake! the land is waking;
 At our feet a heavy lead, Slavery's iron throne is breaking,
 And our millions quake with dread.
 For our homesteads, for our nation,
 For our states and continental make,
 For men's rights in every station,
 Be awake! be wide awake!

Oh! with freedom's banners touching;
 Darkness, falsehood, sin we cure;
 Truth our flaming sword that seethes, Error's robes that oppress,
 Make to conduct freedom only;
 As our fathers did of yore;
 Wake from mountain, plain and valley,
 We meet them where they are.

Wake! for millions; unborn ages!
 Bless the victory, we must gain!
 Wake and waken the battle rages;
 To the conquest! all array!
 Wake with mind and soul and feeling,
 Be awake! be wide awake!
 Soon our shouts of triumph pealing,
 All the land will thunder-shake.

ONE OF LINCOLN'S YORK FRIENDS.—The Philadelphia North American tells the following good story:

Riding in an Eighth street car on Friday, we saw a juvenile passenger step into the vehicle. He was not over nine years old, was neatly dressed, and wore a political medal at his buttonhole. We observed that the medal bore the likeness of Lincoln and asked the lad if he were a people's partisan. We thus opened up the conversation.

"If you were a man, you would vote for Lincoln would you?"

"Yes," said the youngster, "I would."

"Does your father vote for Lincoln?"

We asked—from his manly bearing and well provided apparel, we supposed him to be at least the son of a merchant.

He is going to," was the reply. "He was always a democrat, but now he is on the other side."

"And do you know what changed his views?" we asked, by way of beguiling time, rather than anything else.

"I'll tell you," said he. "My father is a packer in Messrs. — & Co's crockery house. He's an Irishman, too, though I was born here. He found, about two weeks before the election, that Mr. Foster voted against sending relief to Ireland, during the famine. I showed him the North American where it was printed, and he and the two porters in the store voted for Mr. Curtin, just on that account."

"And your father is going to vote for Mr. Lincoln, is he?"

"Yes."

"And do you know why?"

"Certainly. I read the papers to him, and he's found that he's had a bit in his mouth, and that the democrats have driven him like a nail all his life. He now wants a little truth by way of change."

Having said this, the youngster drew from his pocket a campaign document, and nestling close in the corner of the car, commenced its perusal with all the gravity of a bishop. If we are not mistaken, that youngster will yet make his mark and sport M. C. at the end of his name.

BUMP & GRAY,
 GRAIN AND PRODUCE DEALERS.

JANESVILLE, November 3, 1860.

TIMOTHY SEED—in good demand at 1,50¢ to 1,60¢ per 100 lbs.

Phoenix Insurance Co. of Hartford.

We take pleasure in directing the attention of property-holders to the statement of the Phoenix Insurance Company, published in another column. This we consider one of the most reliable Insurance Companies in the country; and we think no one need have the least hesitancy in effecting an insurance in it. Their exhibit shows conclusively of its reliability. No one owning property should go without an insurance, and to such we recommend them to call on the agent and at once effect an insurance.—Home Journal, Ind.

Continental Insurance Company.

This prosperous corporation, in order to meet its present and growing wants, has just completed the purchase of the desirable property known as No. 102 Broadway and No. 1 Fine street. Possession will be given on or before the 1st of May next. When we learn a new and beautiful structure will at once be erected, suited to the requirements of the Company. No institution of a similar character in the nation, all things considered, can boast of such an unparalleled prosperity as can this. Commencing with a cash capital of half a million of dollars, it has steadily and rapidly grown, until its available assets now amount to about one million. The officers and directors are known all over the country as among the leading industrial business men and capitalists of this city. No better, safer, or stronger Insurance Company exists than the Continental. May it live and grow a thousand years, and continue to pay fat dividends.—New York Independent.

To the Public.

"Now is the accepted time"—to-morrow may be too late—delays are dangerous.—Have you got a store of goods? Have you a dwelling house? Have you any insurable property? Go at once to Dimock's Agency and have it insured. Do not let the melancholy words "he had no insurance" prove applicable to your case in event of a sweeping fire.

NOTHING LIKE IT TO RESTORE A DOUBTFUL CREDIT.

It is greatly to the credit of any owner or occupant of a building to have placed conspicuously over his door, any of the following leading companies' house plates. The Home of New York. The Phoenix of Hartford. The Continental of New York. The Security of New York. The Merchants of Hartford, or the Northern of London, England. Is your credit at the Banks getting below par, up with one of these plates and you are all right at the Rock County, the Central or at Hoyt's.—Every passer-by will say "there is a sound business man." Tell your New York creditors that you insure your lake freights in the reliable Old Home, and your goods after their arrival in any of these incomparable companies and your orders will at all times be filled, and at the lowest figures. A few more of these ornamental plates left at Dimock's Agency.

I desire to call the attention of the citizens of Janesville and Rock County, more in detail to these well known, reliable and prompt paying
